1 General

Your data is in safe hands. This data protection declaration describes the type, scope and purpose of the processing of personal data within the parameters of the services I offer. This declaration applies regardless of the domains, systems, platforms and devices used (e.g. desktop or mobile website).

This information is intended to provide my customers, service providers and those interested in my services an overview of how their personal data is processed and their rights according to the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). This also includes data collection and further data processing within the parameters of the use of my website.

2. Definition of personal data

Personal data means any information relating to natural individuals who can be identified or are identifiable (e.g. name, addresses, IP address). Further essential definitions relating to data protection can be found in Article 4 of the GDPR.

3. The processing of data in relation to my company.

a) General

I only process personal data in compliance with the legal provisions (in particular Art. 6 Para. 1 of the GDPR). Accordingly, data will only be processed if there is legal permission; in particular if the data processing is required to fulfill my contractual services, is required by law, if you as a user/customer have given your consent, or my company has a legitimate interest.

b) Data processing in connection with the website

General

There is a legitimate interest in ensuring the operation, security and optimization of my website. To improve the information I offer, the following data is collected, stored and evaluated on my website when you visit my website:

Browser type, operating system, country, date, time, IP address and duration of the website visit.

These data are stored as server log files on the website server. In principle, these data are stored for a maximum of 7 days and then deleted. If data have to be retained in individual cases - for example for reasons of evidence - they are excluded from deletion until the incident has been finally clarified.

The web server is located in Germany. The data is not used to personally identify visitors to the website.

Cookies

The website uses exclusively session cookies. These are used for temporary recognition and for the monitoring of web traffic. A session is a randomly generated/unique value assigned when someone visits a website. Session cookies are temporarily stored in memory and are automatically removed when the browser is closed again.

Cookies are small files that are stored on your end device. Your browser accesses these files. The use of these cookies increases the user-friendliness and security of the website. However, you can object to their application.

You have the option of preventing the storage of cookies on your device by choosing the appropriate settings in your browser. There is no guarantee that you will be able to retain unrestricted access to all functions of this website if your browser does not accept cookies.

Processing the data

As the website operator, I collect, use and pass on your data only if this is permitted by law or if you have consented to the collection of data.

You can visit the website without providing any further information about yourself. However, you have the option of using the contact form on the website to direct your concerns and questions to me. Data processing for the purpose of electronic contact with me takes place either on the basis of your voluntary consent according to Art 6 Para. 1 letter a of the GDPR, or on the basis of the fulfillment of pre-contractual measures.

In order for me to contact you, you must provide your first name, last name and a valid email address. Additional information, specified on the contact form, may be provided voluntarily.

These data will be processed by me in order to fulfill your request. Insofar as these data may not be further processed for the purposes of a contract or pre-contractual measures in accordance with Art 6 Para 1 letter b of the GDPR, I will delete your data after the reason for contacting me has been dealt with.

c) Data processing by customers

In order to carry out my work via digital platforms, the processing of personal data is of course necessary. This already affects the processing of pre-contractual measures, as well as the fulfillment of contractual obligations according to Art 6 Para. 1 letter b GDPR. If you do not provide me with your data, no contract can be concluded.

If you give me your consent, I am entitled to use you as a reference on my website and my advertising material, this processing is based on Art 6 Para 1 letter a of GDPR. The consent given can be revoked at any time.

In addition, I need to process some of your personal data in order to comply with legal obligations, such as keeping accounting records. This processing is based on Art 6 Para 1 letter c GDPR.

4. Categories of Data Processed

As part of my offer, personal data is processed for the execution of a contract (Art 6 Para 1 letter b GDPR), based on my legitimate interests (Art 6 Para 1 letter f GDPR), your consent (Art 6 Para 1 letter a GDPR) or due to a legal obligation (Art 6 Para 1 letter c GDPR). Which personal data is processed in individual cases and in what way depends on the specific contact or my service. The categories of data processed include in particular:

- ⑩ Inventory data (e.g. names and addresses, telephone number, e-mail address)
- ⑩ Contract data (e.g. personal data required for the establishment and execution of the contract)
- ⑩ Bank details (IBAN, BIC)
- ⑩ Security data (usernames, passwords)
- ⑩ Electronic identification data (IP address, cookies, log files, etc)

5. Transmission of Data to Third Parties and Third-Party Providers

In order to fulfill the purposes defined above, it is sometimes necessary for me to pass on your data to other service providers. These include, among other things:

- ⑩ Webhousing of the TU Wien, server location in Austria, Vienna

These service providers support me in fulfilling the purposes described above. The service providers are located exclusively in countries with an appropriate level of data protection (e.g. EU, EEA, and Switzerland) in accordance with the 'adequacy decision' of the European Commission (Art 45 GDPR). In addition, I have corresponding contractual agreements with my service providers in order to be able to ensure an appropriate level of data protection (e.g. processor contracts or the conclusion of so-called "standard contractual clauses"). A processor is used in particular for my web hosting service.

6. Data Retention - Duration

Of course, I only store your data for as long as is necessary for the purposes, as agreed, or due to legal regulations.

For tax reasons, I am obliged to keep contracts and related invoices for a period of seven years. Thereafter, the contract data will be deleted, unless their processing is still necessary to fulfill a legal obligation (e.g. claiming unpaid fees).

If you give your consent the data will be deleted, unless otherwise agreed, should you revoke your consent.

7. Your Rights as Data Subjects

According to the GDPR, you - the data subject - are entitled to the rights and legal remedies listed below.

Right to information

You have the right to request information as to whether I am processing your personal data and what data this entails, as well as further information in accordance with Article 15 of GDPR.

Right to correction or deletion

According to Article 16 GDPR, you have the right to request the correction of incorrect personal data concerning you or - taking into account the purposes of data processing - the completion of incomplete personal data.

Right to the erasure of data (“the right to be forgotten”)

You have the right to the erasure of your data provided the requirements of Article 17 GDPR are met.

Right to the restriction of processing

In accordance with Article 18 GDPR, you have the right to restrict the processing of all personal data collected.

Right to data portability

You have the right to data portability provided that the requirements of Art. 20 GDPR are met.

Withdrawal

If the processing is based on consent under data protection law, you also have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. The revocation does not affect the legality of the processing carried out on the basis of the consent up to the revocation. The revocation can be sent at any time by email to aris.daniilidis@gmail.com or by post to the Institute for Stochastics and Mathematical Methods in Economics (E105-04), office BD 04 M03, Wiedner Hauptstraße 8, A-1040 Vienna.

Objection

If I process data to protect my legitimate interests in accordance with Article 6 Paragraph 1 letter f of the GDPR, you can object to this processing for reasons that arise from your particular situation. I will then no longer process your personal data. However, this does not apply to processing for which I can prove compelling reasons worthy of protection and which outweigh your interests, rights and freedoms. Processing for the assertion, exercise or defense of legal claims is also excluded. If I process your personal data for direct marketing purposes, you can object to this without giving reasons.

Assertion of your rights & right of appeal to a supervisory authority
You can assert your rights at any time by notifying me. The protection and lawful processing of your personal data is important to me. If you have any questions or concerns about the processing of your personal data, please contact me (e.g. to aris.daniilidis@gmail.com). If you nevertheless believe that your personal data is being processed unlawfully, you can also contact the Austrian data protection authority (www.dsb.gv.at).

8. Changes to this Privacy Policy

These general statements do not require the consent of those affected. With regard to technical developments or changes in data processing, there may be changes to the declaration. You can always find the current version on my website.
